

POCKET KNIVES RUST BADLY THIS WEATHER

With all our H. & B. (Hudson & Beckley, New Britain, Conn.) pocket knives, we give free a fine pocket knife purse or case, which prevents the knife from rusting; when sold separately these cost 15c and 20c each. The H. & B. line of knives we buy direct from the factory, saving all middlemen's profits, and the price is much lower than similar grades of goods could be bought for. We consider the H. & B. line the finest knife in the world; they are fully guaranteed, and we have not been asked to replace one in at least two years. Drop in and look them over.

STAKEHOLDER OR BAGHOLDER Another Suit Arising from the Thode-Hall Bet.

When President Emil Ganz of the National Bank of Arizona consented to act last fall in an affair between E. V. Thode and Charles L. Hall it was his understanding that he was to occupy the position of stakeholder and not holder of the bag. He is now a defendant in two suits one filed by each of the bettors. The first suit filed some months ago by Mr. Thode was for the recovery of his share of the stakes, $200. Yesterday Mr. Hall filed suit for all the stakes, $400, with interest from Nov. 14 last.

On Nov. 4, Messrs. Thode and Hall happened to meet and happened to express varying views regarding the outcome of the Colorado election. It was the opinion of Mr. Thode that Governor Peabody would be re-elected by a landslide. Mr. Hall who is a Coloradoan and thought he knew something about the politics of the Centennial state was certain that Alva Adams would pass Peabody just as if the latter were tied to the fence. The informal expression of these contrary opinions did not settle anything. It was then determined to make them worth while by backing them. Mr. Thode bolstered his up with $200 and Mr. Hall came in with a like amount.

Then they entered into a written contract which in view of the historic termination of the Colorado election appears to be somewhat indefinite. One of them agreed to pay the other $200 if Peabody should be elected and the other agreed to contribute to the other $200 if Adams should be elected. The contract failed to state who should be the final referee in the event of a dispute over the election. It is only certain that neither Adams nor Peabody is governor by virtue of that election. But on Nov. 14 Adams appeared to be elected and Mr. Ganz who was holding the money sent Mr. Hall a check on the bank for $400. Some time later Mr. Thode who had come to believe that the election of Adams was only apparent and not real formally notified the stakeholder that he had declined his agreement and demanded the return of his share of the stakes. On Nov. 22 the check which had been issued to Hall was presented at the bank and payment refused. It is to compel the payment of that check that the suit of yesterday was brought.

This case presents features somewhat different from the ordinary one in which a better seeks relief. In the only case ever passed upon by Judge Kent in this county there was no decision though it was left in the power of the stakeholder to turn the money back to the bettors. The court could not pass upon the merits of a horse race.

If there had been no other suit than that instituted by Thode against the stakeholder this matter would probably have had a similar ending, but the check which had been issued to Hall and for the payment of which he uses as a complication the situation and will probably compel the court to pass upon the validity of that document.

THE TUCKER CHARGES Some of the Accusations Made Against the Judge.

The latest issue of the Douglas International publishes what purports to be a special dispatch from Globe relative to the investigation by the department of justice of the conduct of Judge E. A. Tucker of that district. It has been known for a long time that an inspector of the department has been in the territory looking into stories which have reached the department about Judge Tucker, and it was announced that he would be in Phoenix some time this week. Members of the local bar have received letters from official sources concerning the charges, and they have been requested to assist the inspector in getting at the bottom facts.

Some of the charges in the international dispatch are of a scandalous character, and lawyers who know something of the private life and habits of the judge say that they do not believe them. But one of the charges made is a lack of dignity on the part of the judge, and the department is said to be in possession of a snapshot of the judge while he was hearing a case. The photograph is said to represent him with his feet cocked high on the judicial desk and with a cigar in his mouth. Lawyers who are neither friendly nor unfriendly to him say that elevation of the feet is not an uncommon attitude of the judge. Among the charges mentioned in the international dispatch is one that the location of the federal court at Globe was in consideration of the provision for him of a residence free of charge. But lawyers here say that they do not believe that anything will be disclosed against him reflecting upon his honesty or his morality.

A great deal of complaint has been made by those who have had cases before him of his unfamiliarity with mining and irrigation law, which never figured in the practice of courts in which he had practiced. Many judges who have been sent here have betrayed a like unfamiliarity at the beginning, but in nearly all cases such litigation has been transferred to some other judge familiar with the law in cases of that kind. Judge Tucker, however, it is said, has not only refused to transfer such cases, saying that he would work them out himself, and at the same saying that he would not be guided to a great extent by authorities, since they are conflicting.

Another subject of complaint has been the alleged tendency of the judge to discuss pending cases out of court and to make reflections upon the attorneys engaged in them.

Judge Tucker is now spending his vacation at his former home in Nebraska.

AN UNEXPECTED DEATH Passing of Mrs. J. B. Alexander in Los Angeles on Monday.

A telegram was received here last evening by George W. Brower, superintendent of irrigation on the Maricopa and Pima reservations, from J. B. Alexander, who is in Los Angeles, bearing the distressing news that Mrs. Alexander died on Monday. The news was a shock to the many friends and relatives of the family here as it was entirely unexpected, though it was learned on Sunday or Monday that she was quite ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander went to Los Angeles about a month ago, where she was placed in a hospital pending the arrival of an expected baby. A week ago yesterday a bright-eyed girl baby was born, and so far as known is still a healthy and vigorous child. Everything seemed to progress satisfactorily, and Mr. Alexander, having very urgent business at the agency, returned home Monday he received an alarming telegram from the attending physician, and left at once, driving to Mesa and catching the evening train south, presumably arriving Tuesday noon, to find that Mrs. Alexander had passed away several hours before. His message to Mr. Brown announcing that he will return next Monday, from which it is presumed that interment will be made in Los Angeles, where the family has many friends.

Mrs. Alexander was well known and highly esteemed in Phoenix, which had been her home the greater part of the time for many years. Besides the infant daughter and the sorrowing husband, she leaves a 12-year-old son to mourn her untimely death.

THE O'NEILL MONUMENT The First Sketch Submitted to the Commission.

An ideal sketch suggestive of a monument to the memory of Buckley O'Neill has been received by the commission in charge of preparing to erect this memorial, and is now on exhibition at the drug store window of the Burke hotel, says the Journal Miner. Instead of the figure of the dead hero of the Cuban campaign, a statue of liberty is the predominant figure, the sketch being simply suggestive of the architect's idea of an appropriate monument.

The contributor is Architect M. J. Fitz Mahoney of New York City, who is a brother to J. F. Mahoney of Prescott, formerly city engineer. The design is a handsome one, the base being a statue in a manner to allow of a heroic statue. It has been placed in a conspicuous place to permit of everyone seeing it, in the hope that all who are interested in the proposed monument will pass opinion upon it, thus giving the commission some idea of what to adopt in having the work done. Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock the commission will hold an important meeting at the chambers of Judge Sloan, who is secretary of the commission. It is expected that definite plans toward forwarding the subscription to this fund will be adopted, and that for the ensuing three months an active campaign will follow that the funds needed may be secured. It is not at all unlikely that the sketch received from this New York architect will be followed by numerous others, all probably suggesting new and different designs, and such that the commission will in the future be kept busy caring for the preliminary work that devolves upon its members.

At the present meeting of the supervisors the commission will be again held relative to an appropriation from this county for the monument. Because Yavapai has as yet taken no action in this matter the commission has thought it best to delay addressing other counties in the territory with a view to securing assistance for building the monument. They are confident that the gift from this county will serve as a criterion for all the others, and that it is the best policy to await the action of the supervisors here before attempting to make any request from other counties.

Nothing definite has yet been done as to the site for this memorial to Buckley O'Neill, it is understood that the supervisors will grant the petition to place it on the plaza, at a point to be selected by the commission. While the supervisors have no authority to select this site to anyone, the permit may be issued for the erection of the monument, subject to possible future action on the part of supervisors elected in years to come. It is expected that the commission will receive a definite reply from the supervisors as to the location of the monument from this county, during the present meeting of the board.

SCHROEDER-TIMME Marriage in Kenosha, Wis., of a Girl Well Known in Phoenix.

Acting Mayor F. B. Moss received a copy of the Kenosha (Wis.) Evening News yesterday containing an account of the marriage on July 27, of his niece, Miss Madeline Elizabeth Timme and William Henry Schroeder. The incident is of interest to many Phoenix people for the reason that Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Timme and their children, including the recent bride, spent the winter here about eleven years ago mainly for the health of Miss Madeline. They made many friends and the young lady was restored to good health.

The wedding according to the Kenosha paper was a notable social event, though the ceremony was witnessed only by immediate friends and relatives. The newly married couple left on the evening train for a honeymoon trip through the south and will be at home in Kenosha about Oct. 1.

The News in speaking of the contracting parties says: Mrs. Schroeder is one of the best known young ladies in Kenosha. She is also well known in social circles in Madison and Washington. She resided in Madison while her father was secretary of state and in late years she has spent much of her time in Washington where Mr. Timme has held the office of fifth auditor of the United States treasury. Mr. Schroeder is one of the best known of Kenosha's young business men. He has for several years held a position of trust with N. R. Allen's sons (company).

Mr. Berger is entitled to much credit for inaugurating special nights at the park. Last year amateur night was introduced by Mr. Berger and proved a tremendous success. This year souvenir night is proving a great drawing card. Mr. Berger does not claim to be the originator of these ideas but was the first to introduce them at Eastlake park. These feature nights are as popular here as they were at other parks (in the east) under his management.
